THE POWER OF STORY

Stories inform and shape what we believe to be true—about ourselves, our families, who God is, where we've been, and where we are going. In effect, stories shape our worldview. It is from this set of values and beliefs that we make all of our decisions. Our worldview will direct what we have for breakfast, how we interact with God, how we manage our finances, how we raise our children, and how we love our neighbor.

"WE ADOPTED A CHINESE ORPHAN BECAUSE OF READING THAT BOOK."

—A customer's comment about Gladys Aylward: Adventure of a Lifetime

Stories come to us in many ways and forms. We experience stories vicariously in our daily lives: "I know the stove is hot because I watched my sister burn her finger." Stories also come to us through word of mouth, books, TV, movies, and music. The values and beliefs underlying these stories can influence us greatly.

"GEORGE MÜLLER PRAYED WHEN THEY DIDN'T HAVE ANY FOOD FOR THE ORPHANS, AND GOD PROVIDED."

—A daughter's comment as her family discussed their financial challenges

Jesus told stories all the time. We love stories. They teach us, they entertain us, and they leave their mark on us. The question is, what mark will they leave?

We at YWAM Publishing are convinced that stories have the power to inspire and transform. Some readers tell us they've read our entire Christian Heroes and Heroes of History series (now with over 2 million in print) two or three times. We have been struck by the incredible testimonies of people who stepped out in faith after reading our books. One young girl told of starting a community drive to raise funds for the needs of Ugandan children; another family is now working at an orphanage in China.

Tom Bragg, director of YWAM Publishing for the last 35 years, read Through Gates of Splendor as a boy. The story, he says, was pivotal in setting his life's direction in missions and publishing.

Which stories do you want to leave a mark on those you care about? Which stories will they remember 30 years from now? And how will they—and the world—be changed?

Explore our true story series: Heroes for Young Readers, Christian Heroes: Then & Now, International Adventures, and Heroes of History.

CHARACTER SPOTLIGHT PAUL BRAND

(1914-2003)

Watching his father perform medical procedures back in India had convinced Paul that medicine was about blood and guts and ulcers. To his amazement, he found that it was really about causes and cures, alleviating pain, and treating ill people with dignity.

The son of missionary parents, Paul Brand, did not plan on becoming a doctor. After training as a builder, he was called by God into medicine and spent a lifetime treating leprosy and restoring hope to thousands of sufferers.

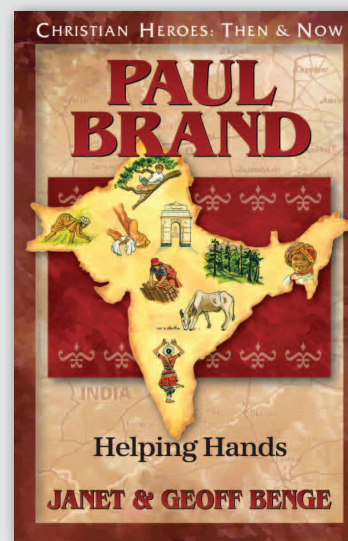

Dr. Paul Brand became the first surgeon in the world to use reconstructive surgery to correct the deformities of leprosy in the hands and feet. He strove to eliminate the stigma of the disease and rebuild the lives of those destroyed by it. A humble, brilliant servant, he influenced faith and medical communities around the world, reminding us that all people are created in the image of God.

FROM PAUL BRAND: HELPING HANDS

At two-thirty in the morning, weary from the journey, they pulled up to the gate of the leprosarium. Everything was dark and quiet. Paul banged on the gate, and an old watchman carrying a kerosene hurricane lamp shuffled over to see what the commotion was.

"I'm Dr. Paul Brand," Paul announced. "Dr. Harry Paul has given me and my team permission to enter the grounds to perform an autopsy. Please take us to the body."

The night watchman recoiled at Paul's words and signaled with his hands that he wanted nothing to do with the conversation. Paul took a deep breath and told the watchman that he was not about to turn around and leave, especially after all he had been through to get this far. Eventually the night watchman relented and told the group to follow him. Once again the team hoisted the instruments and specimen jars onto their shoulders and followed the old man as he led them behind some huts and then upward along a winding, rocky trail.
